MRH WEEKEND REVIEW

CENTENARIO - 2ND - ROSEHILL BM78 2400M

Centenario produced a gritty performance at Rosehill on Wednesday, fighting on bravely in a prolonged two-horse duel before being edged out late. The gelding has returned this preparation in career-best form, continuing his consistent run of performances.

With a tricky program ahead, the Waterhouse and Bott team indicated he would likely trial before stepping back in distance at his next start to find a more suitable opportunity.

BEAR ON THE LOOSE - 2ND - RANDWICK BM88 2000M

Bear On The Loose produced a brave performance at Randwick on Saturday, headed a long way from home before rallying strongly to fight out the finish with Mr Monaco and Unlimited. He was narrowly denied in the closing stages but lost no admirers with his tenacity.

The Waterhouse and Bott stable indicated several options were open for his next start and were hopeful he could convert his strong form into a deserved win.

SNEAKY SUNRISE - 7TH - FLEMINGTON BM84 1600M

Sneaky Sunrise went into Saturday's run in arguably career-best form but gave the clearest sign she had reached the end of her campaign. It was her eighth start of the preparation, having finished no worse than fifth prior, and the effort suggested she had simply come to the end of a long prep.

Ben Hayes indicated she would likely head for a four-to-six-week freshen-up before the team set their sights on a spring campaign.

WILLYDOIT - 10TH - FLEMINGTON GROUP 2 1600M

Willydoit was below expectations at Flemington on Saturday, failing to finish off despite enjoying a favourable run in transit. In a tactical shift, he was ridden more positively early, a departure from his previous pattern under Ciaron Maher, but was unable to quicken when the pressure went on.

The CMR team indicated a step up in distance was likely at his next start as they look to recalibrate and reignite his best form.

MRH WEEKEND REVIEW

APOCALYPTIC - 4TH - RANDWICK GROUP 1 1400M

Apocalyptic was brave in defeat on Saturday, losing no admirers after an effort that was compromised early by a costly start. She chased hard but ultimately found a top-class rival in Tempted, just too strong on the day.

Trainer Michael Freedman indicated the filly had not quite returned in the same vein this preparation and would be reassessed before they mapped out her next steps for the autumn campaign.

GLORY DAZE - 7TH - EAGLE FARM OPEN HCP 1600M

Glory Daze returned with an encouraging effort at Eagle Farm on Saturday, producing a pass-mark performance in conditions the Ciaron Maher team had been waiting for. On rain-affected ground, he travelled well but appeared to benefit from the run as he builds fitness into the preparation.

With several suitable races over 2000 metres on the horizon, we're confident he could be highly competitive again if he strikes his preferred conditions.

CHARCOALS - 5TH - RANDWICK BM88 1200M

Charcoals arguably produced the MyRacehorse run of the week with a fast-finishing fifth in the last at Randwick. From a tricky barrier, he was ridden patiently, and jockey Tommy Berry was forced to take an inside run in the straight, which was the inferior ground on the day, before the gelding charged home late.

He hit the line strongly, and Anthony expects him to be very hard to beat at his next start with a touch more luck in running.
