MRH WEEKEND REVIEW

NINJA - 5TH - RANDWICK GROUP 1 1600M

Ninja was brave in defeat at his first attempt over 1600 metres in a brutally run Group 1 contest at Randwick. Racing on speed, he overraced at stages throughout the event, which took its toll late as he tired in the closing stages.

He was beaten by a rising star in Sheza Alibi, with the Randwick Guineas shaping as a key form reference for upcoming stakes races. Ninja will now head for an eight-to-ten week spell in the paddock, and Michael Freedman is looking forward to his return in the spring.

UNLEESHING - 5TH - RANDWICK GROUP 3 1600M

Unleeshing was competitive at her first attempt in stakes company, enjoying a perfect run in transit under Jason Collett. She travelled well throughout, but was ultimately overpowered late by the favoured runner Pinito, who had tracked her every move throughout the race.

Unleeshing is now set to drop back in class to a BM78 over 1900 metres at Randwick on Saturday, where she shapes as a strong chance stepping up in distance, provided she handles the quick back-up.

TRANSCEND - 6th - CANBERRA LISTED 1400M

Transcend endured a luckless run in the Canberra Guineas on Sunday. She was building strongly into the race, producing the quickest closing sectionals from the 800m, 600m and 400m, before her momentum was checked in the concluding stages, preventing her from figuring in the placings.

It marked a second unfortunate run this preparation, and owners will be hoping for a change in fortune at her next start.
