MRH WEEKEND REVIEW

CHARCOALS - 3RD - KEMBLA GRANGE BM94 1200M

Charcoals continued his consistent run of form with another strong performance at Kembla Grange on Friday. Rising in grade from his first-up effort, he handled the class jump well and finished off strongly, arguably giving himself every chance to win had he settled a touch closer in the run.

Trainer Anthony Freedman is expected to step him up in distance at his next start, and another victory for one of MyRacehorse's most prolific winners may not be far away.

UNLEESHING - 2ND - ROSEHILL BM78 1900M

Unleeshing produced another honest performance on Saturday, backing up just seven days after her run in the Aspiration Quality (G3). She worked home well again, but the lack of early tempo made it difficult to close the gap on Tazima in the run to the line.

Bjorn indicated she would now head for a freshen-up before returning to the stable with the aim of targeting Saturday-grade races through the winter.

JUST FINE - 3RD - ROSEHILL GROUP 3 2000M

Just Fine produced a bold performance to finish third in the Sky High Stakes (G3) at Rosehill on Saturday. Allowed to dictate proceedings in front without pressure, a pattern that suits him well, he fought on strongly but was ultimately beaten by the class of Vauban, who claimed the race for a second consecutive year.

Gai and Adrian are now considering a trip to Melbourne for the Australian Cup (G1), which shapes as an exciting next assignment for the gelding.

GLORY DAZE - 2ND - GOLD COAST OPEN HCP 1800M

Glory Daze produced a much-improved performance stepping up in distance at the Gold Coast on Saturday. He travelled strongly throughout, but jockey Ryan Maloney dropped the whip at a crucial stage of the race, costing the pair some momentum in the closing stages.

Despite the setback, Glory Daze ran on well and owners were encouraged by the effort, with the gelding expected to be very hard to beat at his next start if he strikes suitable conditions.
